Seminar: "Your Teams Can Do Better"

We pride ourselves in hiring the most competent people available – but super-stars do not necessarily guarantee great results. The single most untapped competitive advantage within organizations today is Teamwork – because it is so powerful, and unfortunately also because it is so rare. Richard Deschambault, Consulting Associate with the Delfi Group, will provide a dynamic overview of the most current thinking and programming focused on building stronger, more cohesive and more productive teams. The pay-off for implementation can be huge for individuals, the team, and the organization.

Presenter – Richard Deschambault

Richard brings over 35 years of military management expertise in leading teams in the delivery of quality products and services in complex environments at the national and international level. He is well experienced experience in instruction, professional development, adult training, mentoring and coaching, and team development. He has been an associate of the Delfi Group for more than 3 years.
